

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Once upon a Christmas, a pair of slippers was the gift of last resort, a frumpish milestone on the lonely road to middle age. How times have changed. The slipper has been reinvented; it's no longer the booby prize, but a covetable thing of beauty and taste that not only reflects your personality and injects fresh style into your loungewear, but also keeps your feet warm.

The revolution has come at a cost, however. The range and choice are so bewildering that people are likely to have an aneurysm figuring out whether you'd prefer something knitted or velvety, sheepskin or Jacquard. Behind closed doors, do you prefer to be funky or functional, cosy or cutting edge? Then there are decisions to be made regarding pom poms, ribbons, bows, appliqué, faux roses and real feathers.

So you need to be precise about what sort of slippers you'd like. Website addresses are good, but as Marks & Spencer alone carries 168 different slippers, St Nicholas might just go into meltdown unless he's provided with a product code.

Before you can ask for your perfect slipper, you must find one that suits your image and, of course, your feet.

Video games & consoles are again some of the top Christmas gifts.

You have the power to make the video game player on your list very merry this Christmas with a cool new video game or console it could become the Best Gift of 2010!

For gaming enthusiasts, a new video game console or video game is one of the best Christmas gifts to give. But which one is the question?

The Nintendo Wii has turned the video game market on end, by introducing a new physically interactive experience that everyone can enjoy. This may be a gift for your kid, but you'll quickly find that it's something the whole family will enjoy including mum and dad.

People that were never into video gaming are now big Wii fans.

They're bowling, playing tennis and more, without the need to figure out all those different buttons.

From kids to grandparents in nursing homes, everybody's getting into Wii.

For the more serious gamer there's the NEW Xbox 360 250GB and a new slimmer PlayStation 3 with Move, which is already Blu-ray friendly and reportedly going 3D this month with a free firmware update

Twilight Turtle Constellation Night Light

Twilight Turtle transforms an infant or toddlers room into a magical star filled night sky which comforts the child to sleep.

Twilight Turtle is much more than a nightlight that helps ease the children's fear of the dark however, this interactive and educational toy projects 8 actual star constellations (such as The Big Dipper) onto bedroom ceiling and walls in your choice of three nurturing colours.

Parents can sit with their children and identify these major constellations using the wonderfully illustrated Twilight Turtle Star Guide.
